

I would be delighted if you can put it to good use as a logo for ANOR. Your organization has my permission to use the artwork free of any copyright conditions.

I have worked as a graphic designer/illustrator since 1969, when I began working in the retail advertising industry in Melbourne, Victoria. I then spent three years in New Zealand where I obtained further experience in advertising agencies. From 1979 until 1986 I lived in Seattle, U.S.A. where I worked as a freelance designer/illustrator. I have worked in the Canberra area for fifteen years, ten of which I was self-employed. I now work for Metrographics, a small well-established design studio in Canberra.

A large component of my work has been of an environmental theme. I have designed all graphics for ACT NOWaste since 1991, which has given me some insight into the issues involved with waste disposal and recycling. I have also designed and illustrated posters and publications for Environment Australia and the Aboriginal & Torres Strait Islander Commission.

My main interests outside work for many years have been organic gardening and animal welfare. These activities, combined with an upbringing on a fruit property in Victoria have given me an ongoing interest in the care of the environment on both a local and global level. For these reasons, I find it very satisfying to work for organizations which are dedicated to improving the state of the planet.

Kindest Regards,

Carolyn Brooks
